Feel like changing the world?

Want to make an impact locally and globally?

The Levermore Global Scholars program is an innovative learning community made up of students like you, with strong academic records, a knack for critical thinking and a deep desire to make a difference—whether it's right in your own neighborhood or somewhere across the world.

Our students have studied globalization while traveling in China. They've immersed themselves in sustainability in Costa Rica and have explored issues of conflict transformation and the arts in Kosovo. Some have visited schools to better understand education's role in Cuba.

As a Levermore Global Scholar, you'll also be part of small classes on campus that reflect your interests, taught by experts in everything from world health and sustainability to peace building and human rights.

You can enrich that learning, too, with cultural excursions to New York City, internships and service projects. You can even attend invitation-only briefings at the United Nations.

This program won't just open your eyes and mind—it can help you find your passion and place in today's changing world.

How does the program work?

CHOOSE ANY MAJOR. As a Levermore Global Scholar (LGS), you can declare any major or minor. In your first year, you'll take LGS-only sections of the required freshman courses. After that, you'll take classes that also count toward fulfilling general education requirements in the arts, humanities, social sciences and sciences.

DIFFERENT MAJORS

LEARN FROM INTERNATIONALLY RENOWNED INSTRUCTORS. Our classes are taught by Adelphi faculty members who win awards, earn fellowships and work all over the world. Their seminars are designed to emphasize discussion, examine global subjects and enable you to learn by engaging in the community.

It's social action beyond borders.

Global engagement.

MAKE YOURSELF MARKETABLE. Employers are looking for more than good grades. They're looking for experience. You'll work in and out of the classroom, so you'll be graduating with an impressive, well-rounded résumé along with a well-recognized diploma.

Want to expand your worldview close to home...

You don't have to travel far and wide to gain a global perspective.

With our location in the diverse New York metropolitan area—and an international student body—Adelphi's Levermore Global Scholars program provides you with plenty of opportunities to work, learn and interact with people from all over the globe, whether it's in a classroom or a conference room at the United Nations.

But you can also discover what it's like to immerse yourself in a different country and culture through our study-abroad programs.

Our students have worked alongside Peace Corps volunteers while learning new customs and languages in Senegal. They've advocated for universal human rights through the Nobel Prize Forum in Norway. Some have fought for ecological justice and sustainable development in the rain forests of Costa Rica. These are experiences our students call transformative.

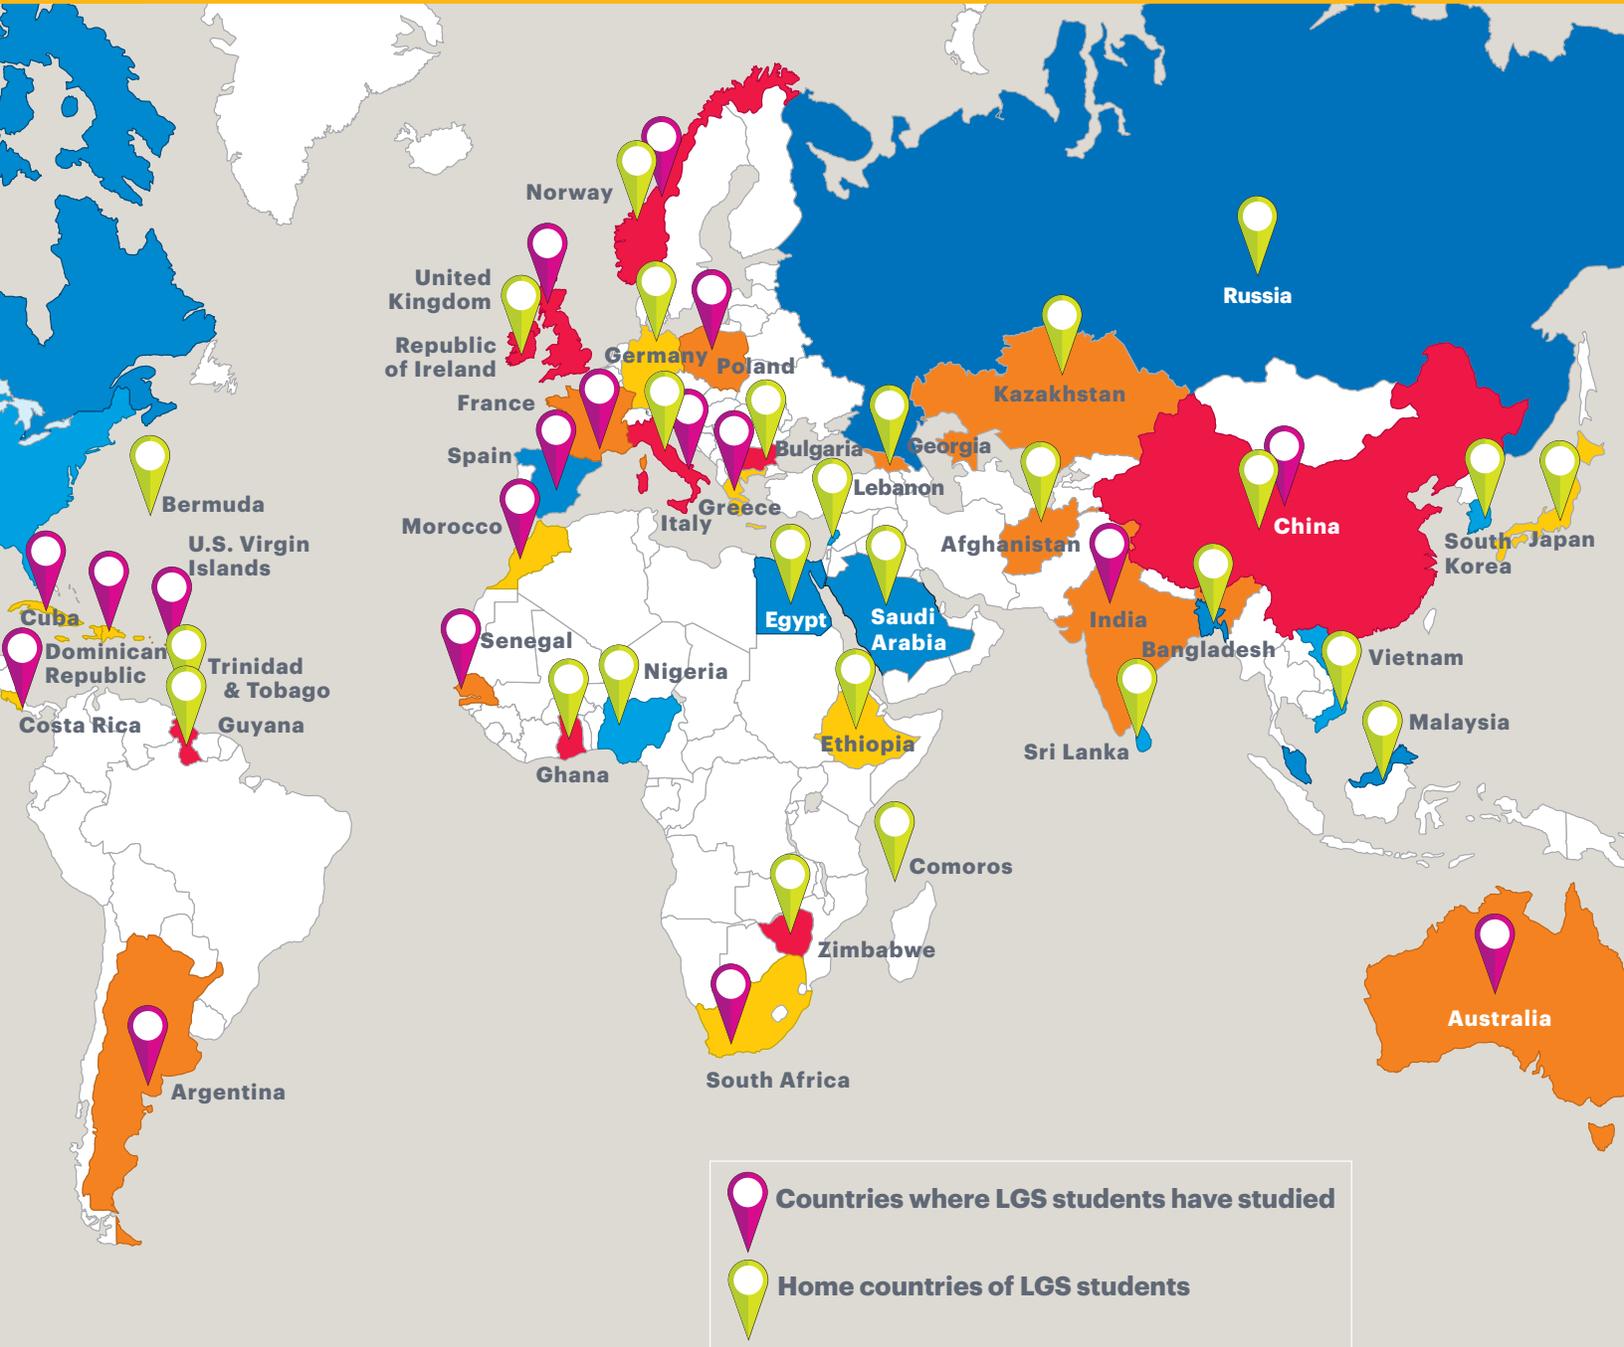

You'll be an active learner, and you'll graduate well prepared to be a force for worldwide change.

LEVERMORE GLOBAL SCHOLARS
PARTICIPATE IN SPECIAL ACTIVITIES
WITH THE UNITED NATIONS EACH YEAR

Will I really have opportunities with the United Nations?

With this program, you can participate in invitation-only briefings, summits, conferences and special projects at the United Nations headquarters in New York City. You'll also get the chance to collaborate with leading international nongovernmental organizations as well as members of the U.N. diplomatic community, learning how to help solve worldwide problems.

This tradition of global awareness dates back to Adelphi's first president, Charles Levermore, Ph.D., an outspoken human rights activist, friend of Woodrow Wilson and recipient of the Bok Peace Prize.

Yes. And it will change the way you see the world.

“Through Levermore Global Scholars, I was able to participate in a variety of events and conferences at the United Nations, get my foot in the door in the right kind of activism and form great connections with a number of people who were a positive influence in my university journey and experience.”

—Isuri Wijesundara '18, theater arts graduate, Levermore Global Scholar

Creating a better world starts at home. Build houses for people in need. Feed the hungry. Protect the environment. Combat inequality. Levermore Global Scholars are encouraged to pursue internships at public service organizations in our own community. You can lend your hand to a worthy cause, while gaining valuable experience doing grassroots work for a local nonprofit.

Can I help my own community, too?

What have Levermore Global Scholars done?

Check out some of our recent alumni and how they are changing the world.

SARAH CINQUEMANI '15
Majors: Environmental Studies,
Political Science

During her time at Adelphi, Cinquemani interned with U.S. Senator Kirsten Gillibrand, served as President of the Student Government Association and conducted field-based environmental research while studying abroad in Australia and the U.S. Virgin Islands. She is now pursuing her J.D. in Environmental Law at Pace University School of Law.

NAHTAHNIEL REEL-YEHUDAH '14
Major: Physics

During an LGS faculty-led course to Costa Rica, Reel-Yehudah explored the connections between sustainable development and peace building. He credits this sustainability seminar with paving his way for his career in sustainable engineering. He pursued Adelphi's pre-engineering joint-degree program with Columbia University, completed two bachelor's degrees and then went on to earn a Master of Science in Construction Management and Administration from Columbia, as well. Today, he is a project engineer at Turner Construction Company, and he mentors high school students interested in STEM topics.

Where are they now?

REAZ KHAN '13

Major: International Studies, Political Science concentration

Minor: Latin American Studies

Khan founded and organized the Levermore Global Scholars interfaith initiative, for which he was named a national Newman Civic Fellow. After graduation, he taught English in the United Arab Emirates and Turkey. Today he is Director of Global Student Programs at Concordia College and he now holds three master's degrees: Master of Education in Comparative and International Education from Columbia University Teachers College, Master of Arts in International Relations and Conflict Resolution from American Military University and Master of Business Administration in Analytics from Mercy College.

ANN-MARIE RAMSAROOP '14

Major: English

Ramsaroop served as vice president of both the Levermore Global Scholars Student Leadership Council and Adelphi's chapter of Amnesty International. Over the years, she has participated in various human rights campaigns—aimed at rehabilitating child soldiers, combating child trafficking and fighting global poverty—with Falling Whistles, World Vision and Love146, respectively. She earned a Master of Arts in Religion with a concentration in Women, Gender and Sexuality from Yale Divinity School, and now is also simultaneously completing a Master of Social Work and a Master of Science in Infant Mental Health and Developmental Practice at Adelphi University.

SAFETY FIRST

Colleges and universities are required under federal law to publish and make available an annual campus security report, which includes, among other information, statistics on campus crime. The crime statistics for all colleges and universities required to comply with this law are available from the United States Department of Education.

Adelphi University's annual security report includes statistics for the previous three years concerning reported crimes that occurred on campus; in certain off-campus buildings or property owned or controlled by Adelphi University; and on public property within, or immediately adjacent to and accessible from, the campus.

The report also includes institutional policies concerning campus security, such as policies concerning alcohol and drug use, crime prevention, the reporting of crimes, sexual assault, emergency response plan, timely warnings, fire statistics, missing students and other matters. The advisory committee on campus safety will provide upon request all campus crime statistics as reported to the United States Department of Education. You may obtain a copy of this report by contacting the Department of Public Safety and Transportation, Levermore Hall, lower level, 516.877.3500 or by accessing administration.adelphi.edu/publicsafety.

The United States Department of Education's website for campus crime statistics is ope.ed.gov/security.

As a reminder, the back of any Adelphi University ID card provides you with weather advisory and alert numbers to obtain information on any possible delayed openings or school closings. To register for the University Mass Notification System, log on to eCampus (ecampus.adelphi.edu) and click on University Mass Notification System.
